DEPUTY SHERIFF CAUSES PANIC.

John Munsil Draws Revolver in Crowded Car and Attacks Passenger.

Deputy Sheriff John Munsil created a panic among the passengers on a crowded Eighteenth street car vesterday after noon by drawing his revolver and attacking Theodore Minnebo of No. 2035 Gravois It required two policemen to overpower and disarm Munsil. He was arrested and taken to the Fourth District Station, where his star was taken from him. The trouble occurred as the car was crossing Nineteenth and Division streets.

Minnebo was with a young woman and a friend. He made a remark to his friend, which the Deputy Sheriff thought was intended for him.

geant Hickey and Patrolman Silverman, who were a square away, heard their cries,

They ran to the car and, after a fight, subdued Munsil. He would make no explanation to the police of his actions. He lives at No. 814 Wash street.

President's Family and Members of the Diplomatic Corps Will Witness the Unique Scene.

The Republic Bureau, 16th St. and Pennsylvania Ave. Washington, April 3. The traditional Easter Monday egg-rolling will take place to-morrow on the White House grounds. President and Mrs. Roosevelt will view the scene, and it is expected that the Roosevelt children will participate in the

This Easter celebration is eloquent testimonial to the democracy of the American people. It is a very simple amusement. TWO HUNDRED CHILDREN. Many residents of this city remember that prior to and after the Civil War the scene of the Easter egg-rolling was on the sleep terraces which formed the descent from the west front of the Capitol to Pensylvania avenue. Gradually improvements were completed, and in 1878 Congress prohibited the custom. Mrs. Lucy Webb Hayes, wife of President Hayes, it is recalled, had the White House grounds thrown open for egg-rolling on Easter Monday. On the first of these occasions in the White House grounds the children in attendance numbered 200. Two years later Mrs. Ga. field extended to the egg-rollers her first and last Easter welcome. For three succeeding Easters the rolling was witnessed by the children of President Arthur. A few years later Mrs. Cleveland was an interested spectator. Next, Mrs. Harrison, again Mrs. Cleveland, and then Mrs. McKinley in turn watched the children from a point of observation on a White House portico. to Pensylvania avenue. Gradually im-

Among the interesting participants in the occurrences at the White House grounds each Easter Monday are the children of the Diplomatic Corps. Of these there are always a few who attend the public schools and speedily become incculated with American ideas.

Youngsters bora near the Equator and far south of it rarely find any difficulty in learning the meanlag of our "Fourth of July," and through the struggles of their own countries for freedom rendily catch the spirit of our national holiday. To the youthful Chinese, Japanese and Koreans Christmas is the most important of American holidays, and it is reported that many a grave Oriental has paid the penalty for sending his offspring to our schools by being compelled to play Santa Claus on Christmas Eve.

All the legation children, however, seem to be equally interested in the observance of egg-rolling day, which is always a holiday in the public schools and helps to filustrate the true democracy of the Republic.

ORIGIN NOT TRACED. Washington is said to be unlike any other American city and dissimilar to every other capital in the world, because of the local custom of Easter Monday eggrolling. The origin of the practice has not been satisfactorily traped, but the statement is made that in the year 1785 a small company of Germans sailed up the Potomac and established below the present Georgetown a settlement, which they named Hamburg, and it is possible that the custom of rolling Easter eggs owes to these pioneers its introduction into the United States.

NEW FORCE FELT IN U. S. CONGRESS,

Exert Heavy Influence in

Representatives Keep Constant Attendance Upon National Legislature to Fight All Hostile Bills.

14th St. and Pennsylvania Ave. Washington, April 3 .- Organization by employers along lines established by organization of labor for the first time has played a prominent part in shaping the work of Congress. In their demand for certain legislation, labor organizations have been met at hearings before the committees and opposed in all the devious channels known to politics, by employers organizations, which rapidly are becomforce is considered to have appeared be-

The new force actively and persistently has opposed the eight-hour bill, the antiinjunction bill, and the national arbitration bill; and it sets its machinery in operation against all legislation which amounts to national interference with relations between employer and employe lations between employer and employe. Behind such measures, with the exception of the national arbitration bill. labor organizations have placed all their influence. The consequent clash has been almost wholly outside of party divisions.

Results at this Congress will not be many, since only the preliminary skirmishes have taken place. But in Congresses to come the same struggle certainly will be renewed with a greater intensity, and it is apparent that the future efforts will be of superlative importance to the industrial and business interests of the United States.

ANTIBOYCOTT ASSOCIATION

ANTIBOYCOTT ASSOCIATION. To the fore, on behalf of the organized employes have been the officers of the American Antiboycott Association which has been here and there and everywhere, opposing the demands of labor as repreented by the legislative committees of the American Federation of Labor and of the Knights of Labor. The Antiboycou organization, being of secret character, organization, being of secret character, nevertheless is of an extensive membership and its influence beyond a doubt has become a tangible quantity.

Heretofore the contest over the eighthour bill has been of a stand-up-and-knock-down fight between the representatives of those great industries principally affected by the bill—the shipbuilding, the armor and steel making industries—and Samuel Gompers, Furuseth and other labor leaders, with a scattering of members of the National Manufacturers Association, who have opposed the eighthour bill on the general principle that its operation would tend to unsettle business conditions. But now the other, and the power which is more or less a secret body, has injected the added factor into the issue. CONSTANT ATTENDANCE.

Daniel Davenport of Bridgeport, Conn. executive agent for the association, is the only representative of an organization opposing the labor bills who has ever been rolling. The origin of the practice has not been satisfactorily traged, but the statement is made that in the veer 1785 a small company of Germans salled up the Potomac and established below the present Georgetown a settlement, which they named Hamburg, and it is possible that the custom of rolling Easter eggs owes to these ploneers its introduction into the United States.

Among the settlers, perhaps, was a descendant of the Princess of Burgundy, who, according to tradition, centuries ago dipped eggs in dyes, hid them in her nalace grounds and then invited poor children to search for them.

Wednesday. Doctor William B. Anderson, an expert in administering anaesthetics, who is also the Gould family physician, had charge of the operation, and Doctor Paul Kimball of Lakewood was also in attendance.

So successful was the operation and the ratient railied from the shock so satisfactorily that it was not thought necessary to summon Mrs. Gould's mother, Mrs. Kingdon, from Canada, whither she had gone a few days aco. To-day the physicians said that if there were no setbacks Mrs. Gould would be able to return to Georgian Court in about three weeks.

While none of those in attendance will discuss the case, it is understood that the attack was rather saiden. Monday she complained of a severe pain in her side, and on Tuesday Doctor Paul Kimball was called in. He at once voiced his suspicions that appendicitis was imminent and urged a consultation. While this view slarmed Mr and Mrs. Gould somewhat, they agreed that it would be well not to delay an operation if that seemed inevitable, in the opinion of the physicians.
